STRATEGIC PLANNING PROCESS

The Utah Highway Patrol's strategic planning process is both ongoing and cyclic, involving close partnerships with the Utah Department of Transportation and the Utah Highway Safety Office, with details of the process shown in the graphic below.

STATISTICAL DATA

Much of the statistical crash data which influenced this plan was collected and analyzed through a partnership with the Utah Department of Transportation and the Utah Highway Safety Office. Utah's Highway Safety Plan (HSP) is directly aligned with the priorities and strategies in Utah's Strategic Highway Safety Plan (SHSP) and includes a wide variety of proven strategies and countermeasures.

2018

MESSAGING PLAN

The Utah Highway Patrol is continually looking for new opportunities to present our information in a fresh and interesting way. We work closely with the Utah Department of Public Safety's Highway Safety Office, Public Information Group and the Utah Department of Transportation to develop exciting ideas on how we can all improve highway safety in Utah. We strive to think outside of the box and try new approaches and techniques to reach our target audiences. The face of media continues to change, and there are numerous low-cost communication opportunities we strive to use.

The Utah Highway Patrol believes that having a united front and full participation in mobilizations, high-visibility enforcement and meaningful communication with the public produces overwhelmingly positive results.

In 2018 the Utah Highway Patrol is also increasing efforts to find viable candidates to fill vacant Trooper positions. The effectiveness of traditional recruitment methods are diminishing, and to meet our staffing needs requires a unified effort to find the best candidates.
