The Dixie National Forest in cooperation with Utah Division of State Parks and Recreation maintain nearly 100 miles of groomed snowmobile trails.

With ample snow and beautiful scenery this complex is one of Utah’s premier snowmobiling destinations. The complex includes stunning views of the Dixie National Forest, Zion National Park, and Cedar Breaks National Monument.

Below are details of some recommended trails/routes throughout the complex. For more detailed information please contact the Dixie National Forest.

High Mountain Trail

This wide, well-groomed trail located high in the Cedar Mountains provides riders with excellent views into Cedar Breaks National Monument. This is a great trail for riders of all abilities and one of the most scenic trails in the complex.

Brian Head Trail

Running parallel to Highway 143, the Brian Head Trail provides snowmobile access to the community of Brian Head and the Brian Head Ski Area. High mountain views and vistas are abundant as this trail approaches 11,000 feet in elevation. Several side loops and play areas are accessible from this trail.

Cedar Breaks Trail

The Cedar Breaks Trail is an ideal ride for snowmobilers wanting to experience the grandeur of Cedar Breaks National Monument. The trail enters the monument and provides winter access to many scenic overlooks. Easy access is available from either the Mammoth Summit Trailhead located just off Highway 143 or from the Midway Trailhead located at the junction of Highway 14 and Highway 148.

Please note: Snowmobile travel within the monument is allowed by special regulation only on the marked, groomed trail that follows the road. This is the only legal path through the monument. Those wishing to stop at viewpoints are asked to walk, snowshoe, or ski while off-trail.

Duck Creek Trail

The Duck Creek Trail connects the community of Duck Creek with the Midway Valley to the north and Strawberry Point to the south. The trail has a nice boondocking feeling as the trail is fairly narrow through some stretches and beautiful open meadows of fresh powder in others. Please watch your speed in the narrow sections of the trail.

Sage Valley Trail

This narrow, wooded trail takes riders through the aspen and mixed coniferous forest of southern Utah. Riders should exercise caution and slow down to avoid accidents along the trail and to fully absorb the magnificence of the forest.

Navajo Lake Trail

The Navajo Lake Trail follows the southern shore of Navajo Lake, a lake formed when the eastern end was dammed off by a large lava flow. This lake has no above ground outlet, rather draining through a series of underground lava tubes. This trail is wide and flat, providing excellent opportunities for trail riders. A marked, ungroomed spur leaves the main trail at Dry Valley and provides access to Cascade Falls.

Lars Fork Trail

The Lars Fork Trail is among the most scenic of the entire complex. With mild grades, this is a good trail for riders of all abilities. The trail provides access to several scenic overlooks that provide spectacular views of the Virgin River Valley and Zion National Park.

Strawberry Point Trail

For many riders, the trip to Strawberry Point is the definitive snowmobile trip of the season. This wide, flat trail gives way to a steep, narrow climb as riders make their way along the last couple of miles to the incredible lookout at Strawberry Point. Drifting near the top of the trail does occur, riders are urged to use caution in these areas.
